Release Date: APRIL 2008 (Available)

Peter, I know you trust in Christ, and he is showing you these truths in a deeper way than I could ever articulate. He will transform your losses into gains, as your trust grows. Whatever you lose, you still have him, and he has you. --From the letters of Don Waite

When Peter Hill developed terminal cancer at age twenty, he could have resented God for taking his life so soon. Instead, Peter calmly and patiently accepted God's will, embodying a grace that inspired and consoled his grieving friends and family. His rapturous departure from this world is an unparalleled glimpse of heaven's glory.

Traveling Home recounts the Hill family's experience as they coped with the reality of Peter's illness and found themselves radically changed by his devotion to God as he faced death. Accompanying Peter's story, letters from Don Waite--a pastor and Peter's uncle--offer encouragement, empathy, and hope.

A reassurance for those who are grieving, or facing death themselves, and an inspiration for those desiring to live more meaningful lives, Traveling Home reaffirms that God is good and with us always.

"This book should be on the shelf of every pastor. It is a book that each reader will cherish and one they will turn to again and again for direction and encouragement."

Author of Discovering How to Pray, When Angels Appear, and Letters from Heaven

ABOUT THE AUTHORS . . .

Charlotte Hill lives with her husband, Dave, in the coastal mountains of northwestern Oregon. Their two sons, Sam and Andy, are grown and married. Their youngest son, Peter, died of cancer at the age of twenty-one. His amazing courage inspired Traveling Home, the book Charlotte co-wrote with her brother, Don Waite.

Don Waite is the pastor of Westwood Presbyterian Church and has been in ministry for more than thirty years. Traveling Home grew out of the letters he wrote to his nephew.
